

Abri Kampfer, Director – International Hydrographic Organization (IHO)

Abri Kampfer is Director at IHO, the intergovernmental organization, whose role is to ensure that the world's seas, oceans and navigable waters are properly surveyed and charted to support the safety of navigation and the protection of the marine environment. He oversees the IHO technical program which addresses the development of international standards for hydrographic information, products and services.